Christopher Collins

Chris Collins, a Baton Rouge native, has been with the Louisiana Department of Transportation and Development since 2015. He serves as the Director of the Waterways Program for the Office of Multimodal Commerce.

Chris is a graduate of LSU with a B.S. and M.B.A. with an early career focus on government and finance. Working for two Louisiana Governors and the Louisiana Legislative Auditor, he found he had a natural affinity for the legislative process. He spent a few years in the private sector working in the healthcare industry but returned to public service in 2011 when he joined Louisiana's Coastal Protection and Restoration Authority. After four years he transferred to his current position.

Chris has two teenage children, plays and coaches rugby and kiteboards when the wind is blowing.

The mission of the Ports & Waterways Division is to continuously improve the maritime transportation infrastructure for freight movement and river cruise industry, by nurturing economic development and enhancing quality of life through the implementation of efficient, safe, and seamless multimodal transportation systems in accordance with the Louisiana Statewide Transportation Plan.
