Protecting Your Personal Information

Hackers rely only partly on their security-penetration skills. The other thing they need? Regular people making mistakes.

There aren't many careers left that aren't based on technology. Teachers in classrooms are using SMART boards. Someone who comes to your home to do contract work will whip out a smart phone or tablet and add information to an app on the spot. The mistakes that cause the most damage at companies are security-related—something as small as clicking attachments in emails without knowing if they are safe.

Next Tuesday, Rotarians Stephanie Sievers and Amanda Simpson will tell us steps we can take to protect our personal information.

Stephanie Sievers has been CEO of ANECA Federal Credit Union since 2012 and has been working in the credit union industry since 2008. She is married to fellow Rotarian Mike Sievers and is the proud mother to four beautiful children. A proven thought-leader, her strategic planning, investment management and financial performance have aided her in garnering numerous awards including: Small Business of the Year, Best Places to Work, 40 Under 40 Award and the World Council's WYCUP. She obtained her MBA from LSUS and her MS in finance from the University of Miami.

Amanda Simpson has been COO of ANECA Federal Credit Union since 2015 and has been working in the financial services industry since 2008. Amanda was born and raised in Bossier City where she now lives with her husband William and their son Ayden. In addition to being an active Rotarian, Amanda serves on the steering committee for the Young Professionals Network of the LA Credit Union League and the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce's Business Development Connection. She earned her MBA from Centenary College and her BS in marketing from LA Tech University.
